CLAIMS

    1.   A method for publishing report for display by a web browser comprising:

5   initializing a report template area;

          adding report components to the template area;

          customizing the report components by selecting pre-existing graphical, textual, tabular and/or other information for display in the report;

10   choosing a format for publishing the report;

          converting the report to the chosen format;

          sending and storing the converted report to a database; and

          allowing access to the report by displaying the report

15   using the format chosen on a client computer access a web server using a web browser.